All candidates must have a professional degree in architecture. Academic post-graduate specialized degrees, including a doctorate, are preferred. Practicing architects should demonstrate that they are registered interns or licensed members of a professional association, along with a proven design record. Preference will be given to candidates who are fluent in written and spoken French and those who support the tri-cultural mandate of Laurentian University and the MSoA. Candidates need to demonstrate a commitment to promoting a diverse, inclusive and vibrant academic and work environment.

The successful candidate will have the following essential qualifications:

- A professional degree in Architecture at the time of appointment.
- A post-graduate degree, such as a doctorate is preferred and/or
- Registration or Licensure as a member of an Architecture Professional Association
- Have active knowledge of both official languages (functional bilingualism); consideration of receptive bilingualism (passive comprehension of the French/English language) will be given in exceptional cases.
- Experience in teaching courses in architectural design and one of the two areas specializations noted above. The candidate will have demonstrated a commitment to pedagogical and academic excellence.
- A track record of design works related to the one of the areas of specialization.
- Commitment to promoting a diverse, inclusive and vibrant academic and work environment.

In addition to active engagement and participation in teaching, the successful candidate may make contributions through service to the School, Faculty, University, and broader community. An on-campus presence is expected.

Established in 2013, the McEwen School of Architecture (MSoA) offers a four-year pre-professional Bachelor of Architectural Studies (BAS) degree, followed by a two-year professional Master of Architecture degree (M.Arch), accredited by the Canadian Architectural Certification Board. Situated in northern Ontario, the MSoA focuses on design with wood, design/build, and community design projects. Our integrated co-operative program enables students to obtain practical experience through work-term placements in industry and in design or architecture offices. Francophone, First Nations, Métis, and Inuit student experience is central to the unique tri-cultural mandate of the program. The architecture program is delivered in English, with French language options for design studios, elective courses, and co-operative placements. Through the tri-cultural mandate and bilingual options, students are exposed to a unique array of methods, knowledge and direct experience that informs community-design and design-build exercises.

The MSoA seeks innovative individuals with established records of design, practice, and a passion for teaching. Individuals should be ready to teach in the classroom, the design studio, fabrication labs, and in the field with local community groups and partnerships. The successful candidate will teach in both the undergraduate and graduate architecture programs and may participate in the administration and governance of the University, including service to MSoA committees and institution building. All faculty members are expected to teach architectural design in addition to developing expertise in a particular stream of the curriculum: Design, Culture, Technology, or Professional Practice. Laurentian is a bilingual university with a tricultural mandate, as such, fluency in French for this position is preferred.

Laurentian University, located on Atikameksheng Anishnawbek territory in Sudbury, Ontario, serves over 8000 students and is one of two bilingual universities in the province of Ontario. Committed to its bilingual, tri cultural mandate, Laurentian University offers an outstanding university experience in English and French with a comprehensive approach to Indigenous education. Laurentian's beautiful, forested campus is surrounded by fresh-water lakes, conservation lands and hundreds of kilometres of cross-country and hiking trails while situated in the geographic centre of Greater Sudbury, northern Ontario's major urban centre (population 160,000). Laurentian University has close and productive ties to Science North, SNOLAB, Health Sciences North and multiple post-secondary institutions.
