

POSTING FOR A TENURE-TRACK FACULTY POSITION IN SCIENCES INFIRMIÈRES (PROGRAMS OFFERED IN FRENCH)

L'École des sciences infirmières in the Faculty of Education and Health at Laurentian University invites applications from suitably qualified candidates for a francophone tenure-track faculty position at the rank of assistant or associate professor with specialization in Nursing. The preferred start date is July 1, 2024***.

Candidates must have completed a PhD degree by the start date of the appointment, and relevant experience can be an asset. The successful candidate will have the following essential qualifications:

- Doctoral degree in Nursing or a related field
- Membership or eligibility to the CNO with full rights of practise
- Evidence of the ability to effectively teach in French at both undergraduate and graduate levels in Nursing with a commitment to pedagogical and academic excellence
- Commitment to fostering a safe, inclusive, and welcoming learning environment, and advancing Laurentian University's bilingual and tricultural mandates
- Evidence of very good research and scholarship with the potential to work collaboratively with colleagues, secure funding support, and build internal and external interdisciplinary or intersectoral collaborations
- Commitment to promoting a diverse, inclusive and vibrant academic and work environment.

In addition to active engagement and participation in teaching and research, the successful candidate will be expected to make contributions through service to the School, Faculty, University, and broader community. An on-campus presence is expected.

L'École des sciences infirmières has a long history and presence in northern Ontario, and has been preparing people to enter the nursing profession for over 50 years. The four-year Baccalauréat en sciences infirmières (BScInf) program offered in French is nationally accredited by the Canadian Association of Schools of Nursing, and provincially approved by the College of Nurses of Ontario. We also offer two other programs in French: the B.Sc.Inf. program for registered nurses (offered remotely) and a program for licensed practical nurses.

In addition to this undergraduate training, students also have the opportunity to study nursing at the graduate level. The Maîtrise en sciences infirmières (MScInf) program, offered in French, has several streams: nurse practitioner (clinical stream), advanced nursing practice (course-based stream), thesis (research stream) and post-nurse practitioner certificate (course-based stream). All streams of the M.Sc.Inf. program are offered through distance education, with the exception of on-site requirements for the Nurse Practitioner program. The School also offers a new master's degree in Health Administration through distance education. This new program has been designed to meet the needs not only of nurses, but also of other healthcare professionals who have shifted to health administration. The School is proud to contribute to the community by building capacity for advanced nursing practice in the North and beyond.

Laurentian University, located on Atikameksheng Anishnawbek territory in Sudbury, Ontario, serves over 8000 students and is one of two bilingual universities in the province of Ontario. Committed to its bilingual, tricultural mandate, Laurentian University offers an outstanding university experience in English and French with a comprehensive approach to Indigenous education. Laurentian's beautiful, forested campus is surrounded by fresh-water lakes, conservation lands and hundreds of kilometres of cross-country and hiking trails while situated in the geographic centre of Greater Sudbury, northern Ontario's major urban centre (population 160,000). Laurentian University has close and productive ties to Science North, SNOLAB, Health Sciences North and multiple post-secondary institutions.
